

VersaSuite to Guarantee ARRA Meaningful Use Certification Requirements

Company guarantees to meet Meaningful Use requirements for Stimulus Funding

Austin, TX, April 02, 2010 --(PR.com)-- VersaSuite, one of the industry leading Electronic Health Record and Practice Management providers - today announced a guarantee that they will meet the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act's Final Rule Certification for Meaningful Use. This program ensures that any qualified Doctor who installs and uses VersaSuite software properly will be able to demonstrate Meaningful Use and therefore be eligible for economic stimulus funding.

"We're announcing this guarantee to give Doctors the comfort in knowing that they can purchase VersaSuite and will qualify for stimulus funding," said Rodney Brown, VersaSuite's Director of Sales and Marketing. "This announcement falls in line with our commitment to not only be the best provider of EMR solutions, but to ensure world class implementation and support."

An Interim Final Rule has been issued by the Health and Human Services Department further clarifying ARRA Meaningful Use criteria. The Stimulus Funding will allow eligible practices to receive up to $64,000 in funding for Electronic Medical Record adoption.

VersaSuite has tools and experts available to help answer questions regarding Meaningful Use. Information is provided on the website at www.versasuite.com, where Doctors and Administrators can also request a demonstration of VersaSuite's products.
